Methodolgy: Using a combination of Acute Inpatient Admission Date, Lab Result Date, and Acute Inpatient Discharge Date, we were able to determine a COVID-19 Related Acute Inpatient census by day. If a patient was present for any portion of a day, they are represented in that day's count.

Magritte, "La Trahison des Images" (1928-9)

- Recurrent pregnancy loss – Recurrent pregnancy loss is defined as spontaneous loss of two or more pregnancies. (See "Recurrent pregnancy loss: Definition and etiology".)

- Second-trimester pregnancy loss – Early second-trimester pregnancy loss is one that occurs after 13+0 and prior to 20+0 weeks of gestation [7]. The 20 week cutoff is arbitrary and not related to any physiologic differences between pregnancies less than 20 weeks versus greater than 20 weeks [8]. By convention, nonviable pregnancies of 20 weeks gestation or more are typically referred to as stillbirth or fetal death.

- Septic abortion (miscarriage) – Septic abortion refers to any abortion, spontaneous or induced, that is complicated by uterine infection. (See "Septic abortion: Clinical presentation and management".)

- Stillbirth or fetal death – Pregnancy loss that occurs at 20 weeks gestation or later, or at a weight of 350 grams or greater, is generally referred to as a stillbirth or fetal death, although differing criteria exist globally [9]. (See "Stillbirth: Incidence, risk factors, etiology, and prevention", section on 'Definition'.)
